Virginians Aid in Appeal to Congruence of the county of the coun ter firm is permitted to erect potes on the property and run a line of heavy-power cables from the Petersburg dam to Centralia. Objection is made on the ground that these wires are dangerous, as it is claimed they may be torn down by falling trees, causing damage to property and perhaps to life.

The complainants—James Bellwood, A. W. Bensiey, Peter Warwick and W. B. Davis—seek to make the point that the railway company has no right to sublet its right of way, given it under the circumstances, for such purposes. An array of attorneys has been engaged in the case.
